FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

The Stock Market Strong, but Less Active-Speculation in Lake Shore.

A GOOD BANK STATEMENT.

Gold 116 1-4-Rag Currency at This Price Worth 86.02-Reported Failures in Paris-Investment Securities Firm.

SATURDAY, Oct. 30-6 P. M.

The oblef surprise of the stock market to-day was the advance of Lake Shore from 59%, the opening price, to 62%; the close was made at 62. The transactions amounted to 110,000 shares. The movement, being entirely unexpected, caused not a little comment, and the latter was by no means favorable to the parties by whom it is supposed to have been engineered. The facts concerning the stock that appeared in to-day's Herald apparently had the same effect on the remaining bulls in it as would the shaking of a red flag at the veritable animal himself. They agreed with one accord that something had to be done and quickly. The consequence was that they promptly entered the market and forced the price up. Apparently the move only resulted in more heavily loading the clique, for on the withdrawal of their orders the stock dropped to 60% on small transactions. At this point, however, they again. came to the rescue and carried the figures back to 621/4. All this simply illustrates how at times values are ignored in the process of speculation, and justifies the caution repeatedly given in this column. The remainder of the "fancies" were sympathetic with Lake Shore.

We believe we have the authority for stating that the November schedule issued to day to the various agents of the trunk lines shows no advance in the heretoforeexisting rates, a result clearly indicated by the nature | chants' Exchange, 103)4; Nassau, 106; New York, 131; and volume of existing business.

THE GENERAL STOCK MARKET.

FALL CORNERS.

A great deal of excitement was manifested yesterday among the lard dealers on the Produce Exchange at the success of the corner in lard, with the consequent tight squeeze for the shorts. The price, which had advanced the day before from 153cc. to 163cc., reached 17 c A great deal of feeling was shown by the buyers, and high words were occasionally used. Many of the shorts did not cover at the high figures of the day, preferring to wait until next week, when they can test preferring to wait until next week, when they can test the question as to what really was the market price, and what contracts, if any, were only straw ones.

Pork, which had been advancing for some days previously, touched its highest point on yesterdsy's squeeze, and immediately foll off very rapidly.

An attempt to get up a corner in oats did not succeed very well on account of new consignments coming in from the West. The price was not much higher than usual.
